GAME 01

Note-ice the Silence

This is a team building exercise where groups will line up in a straight line (shoulder to shoulder) according to predetermined characteristics, such as tallest to shortest or longest to shortest hair, for example. The catch is that they can't speak and have to find creative ways to communicate with one another.

As the president, you decide the characteristic groups will line up to; according to their birthday, hair length, height, grade in school, etc., without talking.

GAME 02

Note What's on My Forehead

Use tape to affix a rhythm flashcard (soup, cake, doughnut, or rest) on the forehead of every United Sound member. Ask participants to stand up and move around the room in silence. (Students can bring their instrument to play the rhythm if they're feeling confident!)

The goal is for everyone to find out what flashcard rhythm they are without talking. Once they've figured out what flashcard rhythm they are, they simply join the others in the room with the same rhythm.

GAME 03

United (Sound) Crossing

Mark a straight line on the ground with masking tape. Ask one group to stand on one side of the line. Then, when you say go, they have to cross the line at the same time.

It sounds easy, but it is not. It takes a few tries and some creative problem-solving to know how they can all cross the line at the exact time. After a short time, ask another group to join in, and then another, etc.

This game can be even more fun if you click pictures or take videos of the activity.
